Handshake In Space Succeeds

By EDWARD K. DeLONG

Houston (UPI) - Linking their orbiting spaceships, three Americans and two Russians met with a triumphant handshake in space Thursday to end years of rivalry and launch a new era of cooperative exploration beyond the realm of earth.

"Hello. Very happy to see you," U.S. Apollo Commander Thomas Stafford said in Russian as he reached through a round hatch at 2:19 p.m. CDT to grasp the hand of Soviet Soyuz Commander Alexei Leonov.

"This is Soyuz and the United States," Leonov replied in English as their hands met.

Then Stafford and Apollo crewman Donald "Deke" Slayton joined Leonov and Soyuz engineer Valeri Kubasov around a table in the Russian ship to break bread, sip borscht, sign certificates and accept the praise of their national leaders. U.S. pilot Vance Brand kept watch alone in Apollo's Leaders of both superpowers — once arch rivals in the space race - radioed congratulations to the spacemen and predicted this was the prototype of future international space stations. The astronauts and cosmonauts exchanged flags of their nations and of the United Nations.

The space pilots, who had flown their craft to a rendezvous over South America and a linkup over the Atlantic east of Portugal, were passing over Amsterdam three hours later when Stafford swung back a round hatch door to admit Leonov through the tunnel linking Soyuz and Apollo.

Their visit was supposed to last two hours, 12 minutes, but they actually stayed with the Soyuz cosmonauts four hours, 34 minutes before shutting the hatch between the two ships.

Apollo and Soyuz use different atmospheres pure oxygen in the U.S. ship, and regular air in the Russian - so Stafford and Slayton had to spend half an hour in an airlock on Apollo's nose to keep from suffering the diver's disease known as "the bends.

During the atmosphere adjustment period, the two astronauts fired up a furnace in the airlock to melt gold and lead put there by Kubasov into an alloy that may be used to make a memorial coin to the joint flight.

The astronauts had a 'cosmic meal' of Russian food aboard Soyuz, sipping green borscht and eating "little bitty small loaves" of Russian bread. Wesley Harms Peery, 50, was bound over to Lancaster District Court Thursday for trial on charges stemming from the June 6 slaying of Mrs. Marianne Mıtzner.

"There's no doubt that all the evidence is circumstantial," Lancaster County Judge Jeffre Cheuvront said in making the ruling. "But I believe the state has met its burden."

Cheuvront's ruling came at about 2:30 p.m. after a preliminary hearing that began at about 9

Witnesses also testified that a rag similar to those used at the boiler room at Nebraska Wesleyan University where Peery worked was found at the coin shop.

Mrs. Mitzner's body was found bound hand and foot, gagged and shot three times in the head by her 12-year-old son Monte Mitzner Her body was slumped over on a toilet stool in a restroom in the back of the store

During closing arguments Donald Hays one of Peery's two attorneys contended that Lahner's

"Everyone in this courtroom has coins in his pocket," Hays argued. "Everyone who worked at Nebraska Wesleyan was able to get to these rags."

The purpose of a preliminary hearing is to determine whether there is enough reason to believe a crime has been committed and enough reason to believe that the accused person might have committed it. The burden of proof is not as strong as that needed in a trial.

A charge of first degree murder had been filed against Peery on June 27. Thursday morning Lahners added a charge of robbery.

About $22,500 worth of coins and watches were taken from the Mitzner Rare Coin Shop, Ken Mitzner, husband of the slain woman, testified

He said he based his statements on infra-red spectrometer tests.

The same test, he said, showed that the rag found at the shooting scene had an identical cottonpolyester blend as rags used at the Nebraska Wesleyan boiler plant.

Det Thomas Waples testified that he found coins at Peery's home at 2748 N. 48th, where he lived with Mary Blazek.

Waples said he went to the home with the permission of Mary Blazek carrying keys that were taken from Peery when he was jailed June 25.

Grain Shipping Cars Used For 'Blackmail,' ICC Told By BOB GUENTHER who have refused to give sworn Von Rein loaded

Star Staff Writer

During times of grain car shortages, grain elevator operators have been promised railroad cars for shipments provided the operators sell their grain below the prevailing market price, according to a sworn statement.

That statement, made by W.H. Broekemeier, vice president of Wagner Mills in Schuyler, is part of evidence turned over to the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) Thursday by the Nebraska Public Service Commission.

Furthermore, PSC Chairman Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont said the ICC has been asked to conduct hearings in either Lincoln or Omaha to gather evidence on alleged discrimination by the railroads in their methods for distributing grain

Rasmussen said such practices amount to "blackmail" by the tacted him.

In the Wagner Mills incident, the statement indicates an employe of Cargill, Inc , a grain processor, on Oct. 26, 1973 told Broekemeier he could supply Wagner Mills with Union Pacific jumbo grain hoppers if Broekemeier would sell his corn for a price ten cents a bushel below the current market price.

The cars were to be loaded at two or three different locations along the Union Pacific main line and were to be part of a unit train destined for Denver.

The document filed with the ICC said the Wagner Mills officials were "most surprised" that Cargill had jumbo hoppers to offer and called the offer 'unheard of.' It also asks the ICC to sub-unit train in question and at a lower than market price. He was contacted by commission attorney Adrian Fiala but refused to give a sworn statement.

The ICC was also given a record of Union Pacific grain cars and where they were distributed.

The data indicates that fewer grain cars were delivered to elevators located on branch lines than ones on the main line. The Union Pacific espoused policy is that grain cars should be distributed equally regardless of where an elevator is located. "The data further exhibits that elevators located on the same track in the same town receive disproportionate numbers of cars in spite of the company's espoused policy of one-for-one allocation," Fiala wrote.

The commission attempted to rectify the alleged inequities by instituting a mandatory distribution formula on the railroads. However, the railroads appealed the formula, and the Nebraska

Supreme Court ruled the formula was illegal.

LSD Tested On Soldiers

St. Petersburg, Fla. (UPI) - U.S. soldier-volunteers were given LSD during 1956-57 experiments aimed at finding a weapon that would temporarily incapacitate but not kill, the former head of the Army's chemical research and development laboratories said Thursday.

The tests were "common knowledge" at the time and involved only a relatively few officers and enlisted men who willingly participated in the program, according to Maj. Gen. Lloyd Fellenz (Ret.),

He said all participants were aware they might receive the hallucinatory drug, but that some did not receive LSD and were given placebos (harmless sugar substances) instead.

In Washington, an Army spokesman confirmed that soldier-volunteers were given LSD in experiments to find weapons that could incapacitate an enemy without killing him.

The spokesman said the experiments were conducted between 1956 and 1959 and may have continued from 1959 until

It had been reported that some soldiers were unaware they were being given LSD. It also had been reported that hundreds of soldiers were involved in the program, but Fellenz said there were "no more than 10 or 15 at any one Army post." He said several Army posts were involved, but he only recalled the experiments at Ft. Bragg, N.C., and Edgewood Arsenal in Maryland. He said he knew of no one who suffered permanent ill effects from the program or committed suicide because of it. A chemist allegedly given LSD without his knowledge by the Central Intelligence Agency committed suicide and his family is suing the government, blaming his death on the drug. Fellenz said he had once worked with the chemist, "But I had never even heard of LSD at that time." "We were looking for an incapacitating compound . . . We concluded that as far as LSD was concerned, it was not a proper agent because we could not predict what would happen after it was administered."

The commission also suggested the ICC subpoena Andrew Von Rein of the North Bend Grain Co. to testify.

Von Rein loaded grain in the unit train in question and at a lower than market price. He was contacted by commission attorney Adrian Fiala but refused to give a sworn statement.

The ICC was also given a record of Union Pacific grain cars and where they were distributed. The data indicates that fewer

Talks Break Down; Railroad Strike Deadline July 28

Washington (AP) — Railroad labor talks broke down Thursday on the verge of a settlement, but the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks agreed to postpone its strike deadline one week to July 28.

The union had threatened to walk out at 12:01 a.go. Monday but agreed to the postponement at the request of W. J. Usery Jr., President Ford's top labor troubleshooter, who tried during a 19-hour bargaining session to bridge the relatively narrow differences separating union and industry negotiators from the contract agreement.

The union, which represents 117,000 railway workers or 25% of the industry's work force, has tried for several months to negotiate a somewhat different settlement from that signed earlier by seven other rail unions.

Industry and union negotiators blamed each other for the impasse.

Usery said "only a couple of difficult issues" prevented a settlement In getting the union to delay a strike, he averted the possibility of nationwide strikes Monday by both railroad and postal workers. Contracts between the Postal Service and four unions representing 600,000 workers expire at midnight Sunday and both sides said serious problems

The Ford administration had threatened to ask Congress for special legislation to limit any rail strike if the parties failed to resolve their dispute, but Usery said no action would be taken as long as the trains keep running. He said mediation efforts would be renewed but no new talks were scheduled.

Union President C. L. Dennis said the delay would give the union time to develop a new strike strategy. This was an indication that if a strike occurs, it will be against selected railroads rather than the entire industry. This apparently would lessen the chance of congressional intervention.

Speaking to newsmen, Dennis said "the issues had been narrowed to a virtual agreement" but management refused to "agree to the few small items" still on the bargaining table.

"Management wants a strike," he charged, because the railroads "think they will get the government to bail them out once again.'

William Dempsey, the chief industry negotiator, said in a statement the railroads "remain willing to negotiate on a reasonable basis, but have no choice but to resist BRAC's effort to gain more for its members" than the other unions.

This was a reference to the "pattern" agreement signed by seven other railway unions which provided for a 41% hike in wages and benefits over three years. The clerks union said the contract failed to meet the special needs of its members, particularly in the area of job security. Railway clerks now average $5.66 an hour.

All legal delays under federal labor law have been exhausted and the clerks are legally free to strike at any time. They threatened to strike in mid-June at the end of a 60 day cooling off period invoked by President Ford, but agreed to a onemonth extension requested by Usery.

Meanwhile, a few Northwest Airlines pilots went on strike for 11/2 hours early Thursday but returned to work when their union, the Air Line Pilots Association, extended its deadline for striking the airline.

The pilots association said it extended the deadline because of "significant progress in negotiations" with Northwest.

a struggle with President Ford over energy policy, the House and the Senate Interior Committee took separate actions Thursday to strangle the administration's plan for higher energy prices.

The House passed and sent to the White House for a probable veto a bill that would roll back the price of 40% of U.S.produced oil by about $1 a barrel, to $11.38.

The House passed the bill 239 to 172 and the Senate had approved it on Wednesday by a 57 to 40 margin, both indicating that neither body would be able to muster the two-thirds necessary to override the expected veto.

-On a 9-5 party-line vote, the Democratic-controlled Senate Interior Committee approved and sent to the full Senate a resolution rejecting Ford's proposal to increase the controlled price of domestic oil over the next 30 months.

The price rollback bill approved by the House was based on somewhat different measures

Washington (AP) - Locked in passed earlier by the Senate and House.

In addition to reducing the price of "new" domestic oil to $11.28 a barrel, the bill would retain present price controls on "old" oil, which represents 60% of U.S. production and sells at $5.25 a barrel.

The bill also extends authority for price controls from its current Aug. 31 expiration date to Dec. 31, and gives either the House or Senate 20 days to block a presidential action to hike controlled oil prices.

Domestic "old" oil is that amount produced from wells in existence in 1972. "New" is other domestic production and its price is allowed to rise to whatever level the market will Commerce Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said "new" domestic oil now sells at about $12.50 a barrel, compared to $14.50 for imported oil. "We've been at the whim of oil countries for two years," said Staggers in a floor argument that domestic oil prices shouldn't be permitted to rise to foreign price levels.

Soviets Still Short On Grain—USDA

Soviet Union probably will need to import 15 million metric tons of grain in the coming year, the Agriculture Department predicted Thursday in the wake of Soviet orders nor 5.2 mill on tons of American and Canadian

The administration gave assurances that the sales would not increase food prices to U.S. consumers. The United States anticipates record crops of both corn and wheat.

The forecast was included in a new review of the world grain outlook.

It estimated global production this year at 983.9 million metric tons, down 13.2 million tons from an April forecast but still the biggest in history, 13 million tons above the previous 1973

Most of the worldwide decline from April production prospects came in estimates for the Soviet Union and Western Europe. Dry weather has reduced Soviet grain prospects by 15 million tons since spring and the West Europe crop is 3 million tons below April estimates, the department said.

Those declines were only part-

Although the sales were less than many commodity traders expected, agricluture officials said further Soviet orders for corn and wheat are likely, and total U.S. sales to Russia for the 1975-76 season eventually may reach between 5 and 10 million

"We still expect the Soviets to buy cern as well as wheat, and our best estimate remains that they might take a combined total of 5 to 10 million tons of the two grains combined" from the United States, reported Richard Bell, deputy assistant agriculture secretary.

The White House said the sales will have no effect on consumer prices, but press secretary Ron Nessen told reporters, "We're watching it carefully

alks Break Down; Railroad Strike Deadline July 28

Washington (AP) - Railroad labor talks broke down Thursday on the verge of a settlement, but the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks agreed to postpone its strike deadline one week to July 28.

The union had threatened to walk out at 12:01 a.m. Monday but agreed to the postponement at the request of W. J. Usery Jr., President Ford's top labor troubleshooter, who tried during a 19-hour bargaining session to bridge the relatively narrow differences separating union and industry negotiators from the contract agreement.

The union, which represents 117,000 railway workers or 25% of the industry's work force, has tried for several months to negotiate a somewhat different settlement from that signed earlier by seven other rail unions.

Industry and union negotiators blamed each other for the impasse.

Commerce Dept. Says Recession Ended (c) Washington Star

Washington - The economy's long, steep decline leveled off during the spring quarter, the Commerce Department reported Thursday, indicating that the recession has ended

Total output decreased only 0.3% in the April-June quarter, the department said. This was the smallest decline since the recession started near the end of 1973.

Allowing for margins of error in the preliminary estimates, the 0.3% decline amounted to approximate By contrast, output plunged 11.4% in the January-

March quarter. The improvement between the first and second quarters was the sharpest since 1971.

Inflation 5.8%

The department also reported further progress against inflation. Measured by the broadest price index, prices rose at an annual rate of 5.8% in the April-June quarter, down from 7.8% in the preceding quarter and a peak rate of 12.7% last summer.

Although the worst recession since the great depression of the 1930s apparently is over, analysts are uncertain about the strength of the economy's recovery. Many of them expect only a sluggish upturn, which would reduce unemployment only slowly.

The output figures were in terms of the "real" Gross National Product - the total quantity of goods and services produced, as distinct from the inflated

Real GNP, the most comprehensive measure of the economy's performance, declined at annual rates of 7% in the first quarter of 1974, 1.6% in the second quarter, 1.9% in the third quarter, 9% in the fourth quarter and 11.4% in the first quarter of this year, prior to the 0.3% decline in the second quarter.

This was the first time since the government started calculating quarterly statistics in 1947 that output has declined in six consecutive quarters. The drop since the peak in the last quarter of 1973 totaled 7.8%, the deepest since the 1930s.

Although real GNP declined on average in the April-June quarter, other statistics indicate that it started rising near the end of the quarter.

18-Month Recession

The recession probably will be recorded as having started in November 1973, and ended in May of this year, making it 18 months long, the longest since the

The 11.4% drop in the first quarter of this year was the biggest in quarterly records. Annual figures before 1947 show declines of 12% in 1946, during a brief recession as industry converted from war to peace, and 14.8% in 1932, at the depth of the depression.

GNP is expected to rise through the rest of this year and into 1976, but forecasts of the pace vary widely from annual rates of about 4% to 8%. At the lower end of that range, unemployment probably would not decline substantially from its current rate of about 9% of the labor force. Even with faster growth of output, most economists believe the rate will remain above 7%. perhaps around 8%, though the end of 1976.

It takes about 4% growth in production just to absorh increases in the labor force and keep the unemployment rate from rising. The 5.8% inflation rate was in terms of a GNP price index, which is broader than the more familiar indexes of consumer and wholesale prices. The recession, which has reduced demand for goods and services, has been the biggest factor in curbing inflation. Some economists are worried that oil price increases may accelerate inflaproduction. In dollar terms, including the effects of inflation, GNP rose 4.8% in the April-June quarter to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.433 trillion, following a 3.9% decline in the first quarter.

tion again later this year, and may impede the upturn in

Stocks Reduced

Within the totals, the biggest depressant was business inventories. Businesses reduced stocks of goods at an annual rate of $33.7 billion, after a reduction of $19.2 billion in the first quarter.

Although liquidation of excessive inventories has been holding production down, this process is viewed as favorable for the future; at some stage, probably soon, businesses will have to increase orders, production and employment to replenish depleted stocks.

Production for sales rather than stockpiling increased at an annual rate of $31.3 billion in the second quarter after rising $22.7 billion in the first quarter.

Among the strong points was consumer spending, which increased $24.9 billion to an annual rate of $938.1 billion in the second quarter. In terms of quantity, eliminating the effects of inflation, the rise was 1.5%.

Arab Money Borrowed

New York - The American Telephone and Telegraph Co., announced that it had placed a $100 million note issue with the government of Saudi Arabia. The company has traditionally restricted its borrowings to domestic financial markets. A statement that quoted Charles L. Brown, the company's executive vice president and chief financial officer, said, "The private placement relieves some of the demand on the domestic capital market and should make it easier to raise the remainder of the year's financing required by Bell operating companies.'

CIA Records Destroyed

Washington — The staff of the Rockefeller Commission, sources at the commission said, concluded that the chief of the Central Intelligence Agency's LSD drug-testing program destroyed his records in 1973 to avoid legal problems and government censure. Dr. Sidney Gottlieb, a biochemist, who was chief of the program and said to be personally involved in an experiment in which Frank R. Olson, a CIA man, was allegedly given LSD without his knowledge and later committed suicide. Robert V. Lashbrook, a former employe of the CIA, said in an interview that Olson had knowingly participated in the CIA experiment with LSD.

Inspection Change Asked

New York - The city's Department of Buildings, with 45 of its 270 inspectors and 15 other employes charged with graft, is planning to seek authorization to give builders the option to hire their own inspectors. The proposed change would entitle a builder or owner to hire an architect or engineer who would inspect and then certify that the new structure conformed to the building code, the builder could also elect to have city inspectors do the job.

Crop Failure To Save Butz?

Earl Butz has to be the luckiest fellow In the world, the man said. His policies have worked in spite of himself.

Butz and President Ford asked for fullscale crop production this year in the face of papiner hesitation and talk of a cutback. But American farmers for the most part shook off what doubts they may have had and are responding with record or nearrecord crops.

And it has taken a Russian crop failure to and out Butz.

The Soviet wheat purchase just anmounced is, at 2 million tons, small gotatoes compared to the 1972 grain deal. but it is thought to be just the first step in what may amount to a 15 million ton Russian corn and wheat purchase this year. And the Soviet orders should stimulate other foreign buyers into action.

Henry's Veiled Threats

Each time lately that Secy. of State Kissinger has taken to the hinterlands to explain U.S. foreign policy he has made a great deal of sense. It's too bad that he doesn't always remain faithful to what he says in such places as Atlanta and Milwaukee.

It was in Atlanta, remember, where Kissinger warned the Turks not to make excessive demands on the U.S. — such as demanding that the U.S. lift its arms embargo and threatening to close all U.S. hases in Turkey unless arms shipments were resumed. Kissinger implied that the U.S. wouldn't give in to such pressures; that, indeed, we would be willing to renegotiate or end present alliances if our partners were unhappy. A nation's security couldn't be as important to us as to the nation itself, he said.

But later Kissinger went back to pressuring for an end to the arms ban imposed by Congress against Turkey. So much for the tough speech in Atlanta.

In Milwaukee this week Kissinger again spoke the truth when he suggested that the United Nations could collapse if the numerically dominant developing nations continue to use that forum for their own selfish ends and continue to spit in the face of those who pay the bills.

"Ideological confrontation, bloc voting and new attempts to manipulate the Charter to achieve unilateral ends threaten to turn the United Nations into a weapon of political warfare rather than a healer of political conflict and a promoter of human

Kissinger is not trying to justify that position; he merely is pointing it out as a fact of life - a fact of life which can dramatically affect the U.N.'s future. At this point the balance is tipped against the U.N. so far as public opinion in this country is concerned, and there will be pressures mounting to reduce American contributions to its operation even more if the unconstructive bent of developing nations is not corrected.

Kissinger spoke for America in Milwaukee. Whether he remains consistent is another question.

CAIRO - Egypt has a Mr. Nice Guy and a Mr. Tough Guy. President Anwar el-Sadat, with his moderate tone on American television interviews and frequent reference to "my good friend Henry," is Mr. Nice Guy.

The man President Sadat chooses to use as Mr. Tough Guy when the pursuit of peace requires bellicosity is his foreign minister, Ismail Fahmy.

When it began to appear that steady progress toward an interim agreement with Israel was imminent, and that Israel would not be made to look like the heavily pressured loser in the deal, it fell to Mr. Tough Guy to call a news conference to threaten that Egypt would no longer permit the mandate for United Nations peace-keeping troops.

Before he made that announcement to reporters seated at a long table in the foreign ministry, Fahmy used what he must have considered a clever play on words. In English, and choosing his words carefully, he charged that delays in the negotiations were proven by "a holocaust of statements" by Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin.

To most people, a holocaust is an infernal storm; to etymologists, it is a sacrificial destruction by fire, but to Jews, and capitalized, the Holocaust was the murder of six million people. That creation of the state of Israel and was poignantly commemorated by Rabin in last week's visit to the site of Bergen-Belson concentration camp in Germany.

After making his little joke, the foreign minister of Egypt delivered a delicately hedged ultimatum to the United Nations: either put pressure on Israel to agree quickly to give up Sinai land, or else Egypt will not permit the foreign troops in the buffer zone.

As he spoke, Fahmy seemed fairly confident of some U.N. response favorable to Egypt and critical of the Israelis, and the nouncement had none of the drama of a prelude to war. Most of the reporters came away with the belief that this was a negotiating ploy to improve Egypt's position in the interim agreement; it may also cent years offer at least some hope of

Now the U.N. is being used to castigate and weaken its creation. $^{\wedge}$ $^{\wedge}$ $^{\wedge}$

Somewhere in this scenario we can expect Mr. Nice Guy to reappear, and in return for his even weaker pledge not to resort to war, arrange for the concessions of land that would make an Arab attack Sadat might well be reasonably successful in this, for even the Israelis realize that he has chosen — for the time being — the political route to recovering lost territory through the Americans, rather than the military route available from the Russians. (In this land of paradoxes, the Soviets have joined the Israelis in complaining about hostile propaganda in the Cairo press). In the long-run, what is Sadat after with his nice-guy-tough-guy tactics? Israelis think he's after them, and have the scars to prove it; moreover, the Arab brushing aside of King Hussein at Rabat was hard-positive purpose. Under the halfsocialism and military adventurism of the Nasser years, the Egyptian economy suffered; now, at least, there is talk of "open doors" and "free zones" for foreign investment capital.

Egyptians, with such a long history of subjugation, like to dream of independence; with India and Yugoslavia, they formed the "Third World." But they must be discovering that political independence means little without economic self-sufficiency; not being poor could become more important to the average Egyptian than not beating the Israelis.

As matters now stand, a foreign businessman could go crazy in Cairo. The telephones don't work; hotel rooms are not available; the banking is archaic. Sadat's top men know this, and talk earnestly of creating an "infrastructure" to facilitate the doing of business.

Sadat might be able to bring it off. U.S. policy is to bet on the hopes that he can, with our management help and Arab oil capital, substitute the need to prosper for the need to hate.

If we're right, and he really turns out to be Mr. Nice Guy, we will have helped turn Arab leadership toward free and peaceful development. If we're wrong, and he turns out to be Mr. Tough Guy, we will have helped build a nation capable of - providing what Fahmy might sensitively describe as a "final solution" to the Mideast problem.

AMMAN - King Hussein of Jordan urges Israel to have more faith in the willingness of the neighboring Arab nations to live in peace with it if it withdraws from the Arab territories occupied in the 1967 war.

In an exclusive interview with William Randolph Hearst Jr., editor-in-chief of the Hearst Newspapers, and the writer, the 39-year-old handsome and dynamic monarch, who has long had the reputation of being the most moderate leader in the Arab world, said the safest guarantee of Israel's future security would be "the good will" of its Arab neighbors if it concluded a final peace settlement based on withdrawal from all the occupied territories.

Crop Failure To Save Butz?

Earl Butz has to be the luckiest fellow in the world, the man said. His policies have worked in spite of himself.

Butz and President Ford asked for fullscale crop production this year in the face of farmer hesitation and talk of a cutback. But American farmers for the most part shook off what doubts they may have had and are responding with record or nearrecord crops.

And it has taken a Russian crop failure to bail out Butz.

The Soviet wheat purchase just announced is, at 2 million tons, small potatoes compared to the 1972 grain deal, but it is thought to be just the first step in what may amount to a 15 million ton Russian corn and wheat purchase this year. And the Soviet orders should stimulate other foreign buyers into action.

With bountiful crops the American farmers look anxiously to the export markets to help bring them a decent price.

The export sales hopefully will not have too harsh an impact on domestic food prices while giving farmers something to smile about.

Butz said when this latest sale was announced that he and President Ford have assured farmers they do not intend to limit agricultural export sales except "in case of national security" (what uneasiness that expression should provoke!).

Not interfering with the export marketing of American grain so long as the domestic situation remains healthy is the only course the administration can take.

After all, it was the administration which asked the farmers to plant it all.

Henry's Veiled Threats

Each time lately that Secy. of State Kissinger has taken to the hinterlands to explain U.S. foreign policy he has made a great deal of sense. It's too bad that he doesn't always remain faithful to what he says in such places as Atlanta and Milwaukee.

It was in Atlanta, remember, where Kissinger warned the Turks not to make excessive demands on the U.S. — such as demanding that the U.S. lift its arms embargo and threatening to close all U.S. bases in Turkey unless arms shipments were resumed. Kissinger implied that the U.S. wouldn't give in to such pressures; that, indeed, we would be willing to renegotiate or end present alliances if our partners were unhappy. A nation's security couldn't be as important to us as to the nation itself, he said.

But later Kissinger went back to pressuring for an end to the arms ban imposed by Congress against Turkey. So much for the tough speech in Atlanta.

In Milwaukee this week Kissinger again spoke the truth when he suggested that the United Nations could collapse if the numerically dominant developing nations continue to use that forum for their own selfish ends and continue to spit in the face of those who pay the bills.

"Ideological confrontation, bloc voting and new attempts to manipulate the Charter to achieve unilateral ends threaten to turn the United Nations into a weapon of political warfare rather than a healer of political conflict and a promoter of human welfare," Kissinger said. "Tragically, the principal victims will be the countries who seek to exhort what substantially could be theirs if they proceeded cooperatively."

The United States, by far the largest financial supporter of the U.N. in its 30 years of existence, is getting tired of Third World machinations, Kissinger indicated: the support of the American people, which has been the lifeblood of the organization, will be profoundly alienated unless fair play dominates and the numerical majority respects the views of the minority. The American people are understandably tired of the inflammatory rhetoric against us, the all-or-nothing stance against us, accompanied by demands for our sacrifice which too often dominate the meeting halls of the United Nations."

Americans have always felt that since they pay the largest share of the bill, they have a right to criticize what goes on at the U.N. Kissinger is not trying to justify that position; he merely is pointing it out as a fact of life - a fact of life which can dramatically affect the U.N.'s future. At this point the balance is tipped against the U.N. so far as public opinion in this country is concerned, and there will be pressures mounting to reduce American contributions to its operation even more if the unconstructive bent of developing nations is not corrected.

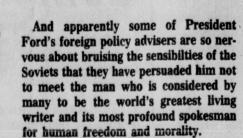

Kissinger spoke for America in Milwaukee. Whether he remains consistent is another question.

A NEW CITY-

There are two ironies in this. First, that the White House refusal to see Solzhenitsyn came during the very week the United States was celebrating its independence as the haven of human liberty. And, second, that the Soviets despite their sweet talk to us about detente - carry on elsewhere a constant barrage of speeches and articles vilifying the United States and its Western allies. Presumably, in the "spirit of detente," we are expected to ignore the worldwide anti-U.S. campaign.

* *

Solzhenitsyn was in Washington the week of July 4 for his first public appearance before an American audience. George Meany and the AFL-CIO sponsored the event, and Solzhenitsyn held spellbound an audience of 2,500, including many dignitaries.

He was frankly critical of Western policy toward the Soviet Union.

He described detente as a "senseless process of endless concessions to aggressors" which can only get worse unless we decide to become visibly firm in our dealings with the Soviets.

Solzhenitsyn: Freedom's Sponsor

No doubt this kind of talk is unsettling to Secretary Henry Kissinger and his diplomatists, but Solzhenitsyn's credentials are hard to deny. He is a Russian who loves his country, but not its government. He understands, cetainly better than most Americans, the Russian psyche and Soviet behavior patterns.

White House representatives were conspicuously absent from the dinner. Press Secretary Ron Nessen gave out a succession of reasons why there wouldn't be a meeting between Solzhenitsyn and the President. First, the President couldn't attend the dinner because he was scheduled to be at a party for his daughter.

Then, it seems, there wouldn't be a subsequent meeting because Solzhenitsyn hadn't requested one. Next, Nessen said, the President doesn't ordinarily meet with private foreign personages (he met that very week with Brazilian soccer star

Then, "For image reasons, the President does like to have some substance in his meetings. It is not clear what he would gain in a meeting with Solzhenit-syn." For "substance," the President has met recently with the Strawberry Queen of West Virginia and the Maid of Cotton.

Finally, the real reason for the snub surfaced: a visit with Solzhenitsyn would violate the spirit of detente."

Frequently, the West German government uses the phrase "detente without illusions." The phrase suggests that detente offers both hope and danger. Apparently, our government hasn't learned

If past Soviet behavior is any example, they might even have responded - indirectly - in a positive manner to a Ford-Solzhenitsyn meeting. They might have responded with some signal - however slight - of relaxation of some of the more visible signs of repression. (Remember how they stepped up approvals of emigration of Russian Jews from the Soviet Union about the time the trade bill was being debated?)

On the other hand, the Soviets might have flown into a rage, as the President's advisers feared, and even cancelled the latest grain deal.

One thing is for certain, though. They wouldn't have stalked out of the Strategic Arms Limitation (SALT) II talks. The proposed agreement already tilts in their

Sadat: Nice Guy Or Tough Guy?

CAIRO — Egypt has a Mr. Nice Guy and a Mr. Tough Guy. President Anwar el-Sadat, with his moderate tone on American television interviews and frequent reference to "my good friend Henry," is Mr. Nice Guy.

mere mention of the name of Aleksandr

The man President Sadat chooses to use as Mr. Tough Guy when the pursuit of peace requires bellicosity is his foreign minister, Ismail Fahmy.

When it began to appear that steady progress toward an interim agreement with Israel was imminent, and that Israel would not be made to look like the heavily pressured loser in the deal, it fell to Mr. Tough Guy to call a news conference to threaten that Egypt would no longer permit the mandate for United Nations peace-keeping troops.

Before he made that announcement to reporters seated at a long table in the foreign ministry, Fahmy used what he must have considered a clever play on words. In English, and choosing his words carefully, he charged that delays in the negotiations were proven by "a holocaust of statements" by Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin

To most people, a holocaust is an infernal storm; to etymologists, it is a sacrificial destruction by fire, but to Jews, and capitalized, the Holocaust was the murder of six million people. That crime on the human conscience led to the creation of the state of Israel and was poignantly commemorated by Rabin in last week's visit to the site of Bergen-Belson concentration camp in Germany.

After making his little joke, the foreign minister of Egypt delivered a delicately hedged ultimatum to the United Nations: either put pressure on Israel to agree quickly to give up Sinai land, or else Egypt will not permit the foreign troops in the buffer zone.

As he spoke, Fahmy seemed fairly confident of some U.N. response favorable to Egypt and critical of the Israelis, and the announcement had none of the drama of a prelude to war. Most of the reporters came away with the belief that this was a negotiating ploy to improve Egypt's position in the interim agreement; it may also cent years offer at least some hope of

be an opening gun in the campaign to oust Israel from the U.N.

Curious, how easily Arab leaders move through the corridors of impotence that make up the U.N., and how frequently they invoke their interpretation of the Mideast resolutions. We tend to forget that it was the Arab world, a generation ago, which refused to accept the U.N.'s creation of Israel, and launched the first in a series of five wars to deny the Jewish state's existence. Now the U.N. is being used to castigate and weaken its creation. * * *

Somewhere in this scenario we can expect Mr. Nice Guy to reappear, and in return for his even weaker pledge not to resort to war, arrange for the concessions of land that would make an Arab attack

In the long-run, what is Sadat after with his nice-guy-tough-guy tactics? Israelis think he's after them, and have the scars to prove it; moreover, the Arab brushing aside of King Hussein at Rabat was hardly a step toward peace.

Scandal In Sports

WASHINGTON - The Securities and Exchange Commission is investigating a million-dollar controversy involving more than 100 of the nation's top professional athletes. The inquiry was touched off by a lawsuit against Professional Sports Advisors, Inc., which represents a host of sports all-stars. The suit was brought by three athletes football star Otis Armstrong of the Denver Broncos and basketball stars Ralph Simpson and Mike Green of the Denver Nuggets - who claimed they had been bilked by a clever combination of land deals and tax frauds. An attorney for PSA called the allegations "all lies" and pointed out that much of the suit has been dismissed. He contended that the litigation is part of a harassment campaign against his client by an unnamed rival organiza-

The SEC, nevertheless, is checking into the land deals to determine whether any federal securities laws were violated. The dismissed portion of the suit, filed in Cleveland federal court, alleged that $1.2 million was collected from about 100 athletes and invested in a phony land scheme.

The list of investors reads like the starting line-up for an All-Star game.

In football, the firm represents such stars as Charlie Taylor and Ken Houston of the Washington Redskins, Mercury Morris and Larry Little of the Miami Dolphins and Terry Metcalf of the St. Louis Cardinals. Plaintiff Otis Armstrong led the American Football Conference in rushing last year.

In baseball, the client list includes Bobby Darwin of the Minnesota Twins, Greg Luzinski of the Philadelphia Phillies, Luis Tiant of the Boston Red Sox and Sandy Alomar and Elliot Maddox of the New York Yankees.

Footnote: The PSA attorney said he wanted to get into some "heavy discovery" to find out who was behind the "false charges," which he repeated were "instigated by others than the plaintiffs to discredit (PSA)." The SEC and the plaintiffs' attorney declined comment.

* * * With crime on the rampage, the top officials at the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration are too busy fighting one another to devote much effort to fighting crime. The agency's chief, Richard W. Velde, is preoccupied with a bureaucratic purge. He has drafted dismissal letters, according to insiders, for at least four senior officials.

The letters have been held up by the Justice Department, which is trying to bring peace to the agency. But the situation is so chaotic that the General Accounting Office has stepped in.

Velde is a loud law-and-order man who believes crime can best be defeated with Dick Tracy gadgets. He wants to provide local lawmen with fancy paraphernalia.

For example, he approved a wonder wristwatch, which would provide the cop on the move with a digital read-out of his blood pressure, pulse rate and body temperature - in case he should wish to check on the state of his health as well as the time of the day.

The amazing watch, called "A Personal Fitness Monitor," will cost the taxpayers $300,-000 to develop.

Velde, perhaps mindful of the police nickname "flatfoot," also has launched an exhaustive search for "the proper shoe" for lawmen. His plans call for 300 pairs of shoes to be tested in the field by different police groups.

This doesn't mean that Velde expects the nation's police to fight crime on foot. He is also developing 20 prototype police cars "to improve the safety, economy and utility of the patrol

Velde is also pushing new protective gear, which was designed after extensive tests on goats at the Army's Edgewood Arsenal. The program killed 100 animals and cost $1.5 Several senior officials believe less money should be spent on police gadgets and more on police training. Velde has sought to solve the controversy by firing his critics.

This has held up the expenditure of approximately $100 million from last year's budget and has created management chaos at the LEAA.

NASA Director Sets Retirement

Hampton, Va. (AP) - Edgar M. Cortright will retire in September after seven years as director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Langley Research Center, it was announced.

Donald P. Hearth, now deputy director of NASA's Goodard Research Center in Greenbelt, Md., will replace Cortright, a pioneer in the U.S. space program. Cortright, 51, was assigned to Washington in 1958 to help set up the government's space program, which eventually

Of course that dated me. What milk comes in bottles? Milk comes in waxed cartons in the supermarket.

We got our papers damp off the press — it was a small town. I worked one side of the street. Another boy threw

Ed Board Fields Budget Questions

By DICK HOLMAN Star Staff Writer

Only three persons chose to venture into the $37.7 million maze of the Lincoln Public Schools proposed budget Thursday night.

But one of those three testifying at the public hearing severely upbraided the Lincoln Board of Education.

Dr. Karen Dinsmore of 1900 Devoe Drive, who has three children in the public schools, charged that board members are not held accountable to the public, and accused them of setting misplaced spending

And LeRoy C. Ihrie of 4100 Van Dorn urged the board to apply more than the $1 million tentatively alloted from its $6.7 million cash reserves to forestall crease. a property tax rate increase.

Applying $1 million of the year-end balance will reduce property owners' tax burden by about 2 mills, but Lincolnites are still being asked to shoulder 4% more of their share in supporting the budget compared to a year

Position OK

Board President Lou Roper told Ihrie, "we really agree with your position" that the cash balance should be trimmed as much as possible. But previous school boards, Roper said, "did a super job of providing a fiscally-sound district, and we aim to keep it that way" without penalizing taxpayers.

If the district started out with a zero cash balance, Prasch said, it would be forced to borrow money from September through fund, tax-anticipation warrants. saying it's "necessary to start with about $5 million above budget."

Presch also noted that investments of the balance this budget year produced more than $800,000 in interest. The superintendent theorized that if the district began this

September with only a 10% balance (3.4 million instead of $5.7 million), the general fund levy could be reduced by 7 milis, to 36. Accordingly, investment interest would dwindle. Then, to make up for a budget shortfall, property owners next year would "face a 32% increase" in the mill levy, to 47.8, he said. As proposed, the 1975-76 budget calls for a 3.4-mill in-

By avoiding sudden surges in the levy, "in the long run, this will save the taxpayers money," Prasch said.

He also explained that the district cannot legally overspend its budget; frequently, income exceeds estimates, and must, be added to the year-end balance deceptively fat.

"I'm not urging the board to go in the hole," Ihrie said, but asked the members to consider that revenue might be underestimated.

Ed Board Fields Budget Questions

By DICK HOLMAN Star Staff Writer

Only three persons chose to venture into the $37.7 million maze of the Lincoln Public Schools proposed budget Thursday night.

But one of those three testifying at the public hearing severely upbraided the Lincoln Board of Education.

Dr. Karen Dinsmore of 1900 Devoe Drive, who has three children in the public schools, charged that board members are not held accountable to the public, and accused them of setting misplaced spending priorities.

And LeRoy C. Ihrie of 4100 Van Dorn urged the board to apply more than the $1 million tentatively alloted from its $6.7 million cash reserves to forestall a property tax rate increase.

Applying $1 million of the year-end balance will reduce property owners' tax burden by about 2 mills, but Lincolnites are still being asked to shoulder 4% more of their share in supporting the budget compared to a year

Position OK

Board President Lou Roper told Ihrie, "we really agree with your position" that the cash balance should be trimmed as much as possible. But previous school boards, Roper said, "did a super job of providing a fiscally-sound district, and we aim to keep it that way" without penalizing taxpayers.

Supt. John Prasch, explaining the rationale for the cash balance, said because the district receives property tax collections only in March and August, income runs behind bills.

If the district started out with a zero cash balance, Prasch said, it would be forced to borrow money from September through

May. He opposed issuing no-teachers' professional developfund, tax-anticipation warrants, saying it's "necessary to start with about $5 million above budget."

Prasch also noted that investments of the balance this budget year produced more than $800,000 in interest.

The superintendent theorized that if the district began this September with only a 10% balance (3.4 million instead of $5.7 million), the general fund levy could be reduced by 7 mills. to 36. Accordingly, investment interest would dwindle.

Regents' OK On Suit May Be Sought Soon

By The Associated Press An attorney said Thursday that he may be ready next week to ask for approval from the University of Nebraska Board of Regents to file a declaratory judgment suit to delineate the constitutional division of power between the regents and the Legislature.

Warren Johnson, counsel to the regents, said he may have the work done so the board could reject or approve the suit at its July 26 meeting.

The regents last month asked that the legal research be done so the suit could be filed.

Johnson said he was in the process of outlining the issues that should have judicial interpretation. He said one of the issues would be the regents' au-

Included in the budget is a 10.87% wage and fringe benefits hike for 145 city employes. The figure represents a reduction from 12.68% raise previously given preliminary approval.

The figures were presented to the council by a Denver consulting firm, along with a lower

The total property tax levy in Kearney for 1975-76 will be 21.14 mills, up from this year's 19.74.

City officials had noted that the $885,000 which would have been raised by the proposed sales tax last year would have been the approximate equivalent of the 21.76 mill levy, thus allowing a substantial reduction in the property tax.

Omaha Education Board Receives Integration Plan

Omaha (AP) - Four measures about a more integrated school to creaste more proportional district. white-black student enrollment in some schools in the Omaha School District were sent to the Board of Education Thursday.

A citizens group, headed by Thomas Jackson of Omaha School Community Advisory Board, sent the recommendations to the board for consideration in the Phase 1 plan now being readied.

. The measures would: Abolish optional attendance At Woods Pool for Technical and Central High Schools.

Eliminate the seventh and eighth grades at Pershing and Sherman Elementary Schools and send those students to Horace Mann Junior High School. · Eliminate ninth grade at North and Central High Schools.

Abolish the "feeder school" concept which designates junior high schools from which a high school's enrollment will come, and replace the system with boundaries and zones.

Jackson said the fourth recommendation pertains primarily to Central and Technical High School feeder schools since boundaries and zones already apply elsewhere in the district. But, he said these boundaries should be changed to bring Mayor F. L. Richards and City Manager Ray Lundy acknowledged following the meeting that it appeared the sales tax proposal is dead.

Included in the budget is a 10.87% wage and fringe benefits hike for 145 city employes. The figure represents a reduction from 12.68% raise previously given preliminary approval.

The figures were presented to the council by a Denver consulting firm, along with a lower

The total property tax levy in Kearney for 1975-76 will be 21.14 mills, up from this year's 19.74.

City officials had noted that the $885,000 which would have been raised by the proposed sales tax last year would have been the approximate equivalent of the 21.76 mill levy, thus allowing a substantial reduction in the property tax.

Omaha Education Board Receives Integration Plan

Omaha (AP) - Four measures about a more integrated school to creaste more proportional district. white-black student enrollment in some schools in the Omaha School District were sent to the Board of Education Thursday.

A citizens group, headed by Thomas Jackson of Omaha School Community Advisory Board, sent the recommendations to the board for consideration in the Phase 1 plan now being readied.

The measures would: Abolish optional attendance At Woods Pool for Technical and Central High Schools.

Eliminate the seventh and eighth grades at Pershing and Sherman Elementary Schools and send those students to Horace Mann Junior High School. Eliminate ninth grade at North and Central High

Abolish the "feeder school" concept which designates junior high schools from which a high school's enrollment will come, and replace the system with boundaries and zones.

Jackson said the fourth recommendation pertains primarily to Central and Technical High School feeder schools since boundaries and zones already apply elsewhere in the district. But, he said these boundaries should be changed to bring

Jackson said the group planned to ask the board personally at its meeting Monday to adopt the recommendations. The committee is made up of persons unrelated to the school

Discussion Set On Rental Rates

The Lincoln Park and Recreation Advisory Board's Committee on Swimming will hold a public hearing in the City Council Chambers of the City-County Building 7:30 p.m., Thursday.

The committee will discuss proposed changes in rental rates on Woods Pool.

These changes are: limiting use of Woods Pool by outside organizations to 12 days per year; and charging organizations $150 per day for the first, second, third and fourth days; $250 a day for the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth days of rental use; and $500 per day for the ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth days.

City Officials Revamp Development Department

By LYNN ZERSCHLING Star Staff Writer

City lawmakers compromised with Mayor Helen Boosalis Thursday in remodeling the Community Development Department more along lines proposed by the mayor than those suggested by the council.

That means no separate department will be created, at least initially, although consultants Barton-Aschman recommended such action in a report to the council.

Mrs. Boosalis argued against creating another level of City Hall bureaucracy, saying she wasn't sure the need exists to create a transporta-

Councilmen Bob Sikyta and Steve Cook have been quite adamant in urging the creation of just such a department, but agreed to go along with the mayor for a while.

Name Changed

The restructured department, complete with a name change to Department of Urban Development, ultimately will consist of three divisions. The unresolved question is whether transportation or human services will be the third division.

The other two divisions will be economic development and community development. Mayor Boosalis said the city eventually may have to set up a department of human services. Everybody agreed that the Urban Development Department would be "too big" if all four divisions were incorporated into the agency. They agreed therefore, that either human services or transportation will have to go.

It's just a question of when and what the new Urban Development Department director

Job Description Coming

The council and mayor will be drawing up a job description for the director within the next few weeks.

All council members agreed with the mayor that the city needs to become more involved in economic development.

"This is something which has pretty much been ignored in the past," Mrs. Boosalis said. She has included $20,000 in the budget to pay for an economic coordinator.

Council members also agreed with Mrs. Boosalis's suggestion not to set up a separate division to oversee downtown redevelopment efforts. Instead, the mayor included that job under the general division of community development.

Favoratism Rejected

She said the creation of a separate division just for the downtown would be unfair to other commercial centers in outlying areas which "have been pretty much neglected.

The community development division would encompass planning and design for all commercial areas, neighborhood redevelopment, housing rehabilitation and code enforcement and citizen participation.

The officials also agreed that various transportation agencies need to be coordinated. such as the Lincoln Transportation System, parking, traffic engineering and pedestrian and bicycles. Better coordination also would be sought with the railroad district, Airport Authority and county engineer, under the plan.

Sikyta and Cook maintained that the job of pulling various transportation elements together warranted the creation of a separate department. Planners Need Input Councilwoman Sue Bailey suggested, however, that transportation planners would be more accountable to citizens if put in the Urban Development Department rather than "being out there by itself.'

The council agreed to place a human services division within the department to oversee numerous city programs which have no administrative head other than the mayor.

Mrs. Boosalis claimed "there are lots of little loose ends out there," loose ends like the Human Rights Office, during the next year - the City-County merger coordinator and the corrections In an attempt to gain more control over such programs, the mayor is proposing to hire an administrative coordinator for her office, for $20,-Council members and the mayor alike said they don't believe any other staff, other than the economic developer and department director, must be hired to accomplish the department remodeling job.

The mayor is proposing that the Urban Development Director be paid $25,000 a year. The directorship of the existing department is vacant Lynn M. Focht, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs Earl L. Focht, is the only student from UNL selected for the honor. About 350 American students were selected for Fulbright-Hays Awards this year.

The Fulbright-Hays program, which is administered by the State Department, is conducted in cooperation with more than 100 countries.

The board also terminated another bus shuttle run, which has been losing LTS between $1,-000 and $1,200 a month since last September.

On Sept 1 the Briarhurst Shuttle run will be discontinued into south Lincoln since only about two people rode the bus per trip.

Two other special runs initiated at the same time the Briarhurst shuttle was started -the O St Special and the Crosstown route - have been losing less money.

The O St. Special, which transports riders from the central business district to Gateway Shopping Center and back, even made money during February, March and April. The average number of riders on that bus vary from six to 12 per ride.

The Crosstown bus, which runs north and south through neighborhood shopping areas, has been averaging four to 12 passengers per bus.

For the month of June, LTS recorded a $45,452 operating loss, compared to $29,021 in June, 1974.

The board stuck to it's "no ad" policy because, as member John Alden put it," ads are a demeaning thing. When put on a bus it makes the passenger feel like a sandwich, being bombarded with all those ads.

In other business, city Finance Director Jim Mallon reported the federal Urban Mass Transit Administration has approved a $32,500 grant to the city to pa the salaries for two bus transit planning employes.

Serenity As Vital As Thrills?

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell a woman after 35 years of marriage and the upbringing of your five marvelous sons that you want to make a new start with another woman?

I feel that this other woman can give me the excitement and sexual compatibility that is now lacking in my marriage. Both women are 53. I am 56.

My wife and I enjoy a very serene life, but it's like a brother-sister relationship. She is a fine, devoted, church-going woman who is not unattractive. Perhaps, she can find another man.

This other woman has been divorced for 10 years. When we're together we are like a pair of teenagers - very much in love. Her children are grown and gone, and so are mine.

I have too much character to live a lie any longer. Please tell me what to do.

DEAR CHRISTIAN: Do you really believe that it shows "character" to tell a wife of 35 years who has played the key role in raising five "marvelous" sons that you want to end your marriage to marry another woman?

At age 56, is not "serenity" at least as important as "excitement and sexual compatibility"? You say "perhaps" your wife can find another man. What if she can't? I say it's better to "live a lie" than to break an innocent heart.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do about a mother-in-law who is constantly pushing her quarter of the family heritage?

Our children are examined for physical likenesses to her family traits; we get family trees in the mail and all sorts of "proof" that her ancestors were bluebloods.

Why isn't it enough that our children are happy, healthy individuals? I cannot understand her preoccupation with her ancestors. How should I deal with it? It's beginning to get to me. FED UP

DEAR FED: The only way to shut her up would be to dig even deeper into her ancestry, and come up with a horse thief - or

DEAR ABBY: Why do ministers end the marriage ceremony with, "I now pronounce you man and wife"? It makes about as much sense as saying; "I now pronounce you man and woman.

The minister is supposed to make the couple HUSBAND and

The man was a man to begin with, just like the woman was a woman, so how come after the ceremony the woman becomes a wife but the man is still a man? STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: I don't get it, either. But I'll bet after this hits print, there will be a lot more men becoming "husbands" after the marriage ceremony.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69790, L.A., Calif. 90069, Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

A CHRISTIAN

DEAR CHRISTIAN: Do you really believe that it shows "character" to tell a wife of 35 years who has played the key role in raising five "marvelous" sons that you want to end your marriage to marry another woman?

At age 56, is not "serenity" at least as important as "excitement and sexual compatibility"? You say "perhaps" your wife can find another man. What if she can't? I say it's better to "live a lie" than to break an innocent heart.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do about a mother-in-law who is constantly pushing her quarter of the family heritage?

Our children are examined for physical likenesses to her family traits; we get family trees in the her ancestors were bluebloods. Why isn't it enough that our

What To Do When 40,000 Italian Bees Land Nearby

By NANCY HICKS Star Staff Writer

More than 40,000 strong, the yellow and black insects hovered in a cloud around our front window, then buzzed off to a nearby

A swarm of Italian bees had decided to rest on a branch in our tree while some workers searched for a likely hive loca-

That night the neighborhood children came, with parents in tow, and stood gazing up at the oblong black blob hanging from the tree branch.

The swarm, the size of a basketball, was a living mass of between 40,000 and 50,000 bees clinging one on top of the other.

The next morning the bee man arrived, ladder tied to the side of his car. Robert Lucas, 3535 S. 40th, cut the tree branch, around which the bees had already started to spread a layer of wax.

Climbing down from the tree, Lucas shook the branch and, with a thud, the bee swarm fell into a cardboard box on the ground. For the next half hour Lucas entertained the neighbors with bee facts and tales, while the last of the straggling worker bees wandered back to the swarm and into the box.

Long Experience

For the past 28 years, Lucas, 40, has been raising bees and his present 50 hives scattered in three locations in the state help support his family of five while he works toward a BS degree at the University of Nebraska-

During the past four or five years, Lucas, whose name is listed with the Humane Shelter, has picked up about 100 colonies of wandering bees from the yards and homes of county

He's found them on apartment balconies, in garages and once in an indoor swimming pool.

That was a difficult job. When a swarm gets inside a building the bees head toward light and spread out. As they fly into windows they get confused.

One day Lucas returned to his car from working at the University and found a colony attached to his steering column. But usually these stray swarms are found in trees and bushes, said Lucas, a former state bee inspector.

The swarms which people find in their yards are a natural phenomenon, a result of bee reproduction.

When a hive gets too small to support the number of bees, the workers produce a new queen -feeding one larva special food called royal jelly. The old queen then takes some of the field workers and flies off in search of a new hive location.

The bees, full with a three or four-day supply of honey, land in a tree or shrub where the majority of the swarm waits while scouts fly out to find a good hive location.

The new colony seldom wanders too far from the original hive - usually an average of two miles, Lucas said. Structured Life

The bees live a very structured life, all working together with very specific roles.

The queen is the mother and the reproducer. The field workers, undeveloped females, gather the nectar, feed the larvae and keep the hive operational. They even provide air conditioning for the hive, gathering drops of water, bringing the drops to the hive and then fanning the water with their wings to make it evaporate and thus cool the hive.

The drones, produced from an unfertilized egg, are the male bees, with only one function to mate with the queen. When a drone mates, he dies. Each fall, or any other time when there is a shortage of food, the drones are kicked out of the hive, "so they don't have to feed dead weight,' Lucas said.

Bees are generally gentle and don't sting unless they or their hive is threatened, according to

But certain perfumes, deodorants or hair oils irritate bees, said Lucas, who has had bees come after him because he

Lucas himself has been stung up to 40 or 50 times in one day. And he cautions that bee stings, which are really barbs should be scraped off the skin. If the sting is pinched or pulled you will squeeze the acid into the body, he warned.

Bee stings hurt, but they won't swell up unless the person is allergic to them, he said.

Bees not only produce income for bee keepers, who average about 100 pounds of honey per hive a year, but they are also necessary in agriculture. Certain crops won't reproduce without pollination, a function of bees, Lucas said. And other crops have increased yield through pollina-

Wheat Harvest Moves o Sidney; Crops Good

By The Associated Press

The wheat harvest moved into Sidney area of western Nebraska Thursday and, although not in full swing, levator operators said the outok was good.

Spokesmen for both the Colton and Farmers Co-op Elecaors said there were plenty of ustom combines on hand in the wheat-rich county, and some were parked in Sidney waiting for business.

Don Hoffman, manager of the Farmers Co-op Elevator, said it would be at least a "couple of days" before the cutting reaches its peak.

He said fields which were cut early yielded from 40 to 50. bushels per acre, with a test weight average of 61 pounds. Hoffman said the crop looked better now than a couple of

At Haves Center, the crop was reported about 75% cut and 'real good" in quality by Verdon Scott, manager of the Rickeling Inc., Grain Co.

Scott said he had heard of yields ranging from 35 to 57 bushels, with a test weight averaging 63 pounds. On the other hand, he said some fields "were not so good."

The harvest was moving along very well at Imperial, where Bill Conroy, manager of the Imperial Grain Co., said it was averaging 40 bushels to the acre, or better than average.

Test weight of wheat Conroy had seen ranged from 58 to 62 pounds, with a moisture content of 10 to 11%.

In the Broken Bow area, 25 to 30 bushels average per acre were being reported, with a test months ago, when farmers ex- weight of 58 to 62 pounds, accor-

Also included is the installation of a turbine room overhead crane capable of lifting 100 tons. Lueder Construction Co. of.

Omaha received a $241,650 contract for the construction of an office building and guard house at the power station site.

Also approved was a $43,880 contract to the Armco Steel Corp. of Topeka, Kan., for the manufacturing and delivery of four culverts.

The board approved a $59.983 change order increasing the price of a contract held by the Westinghouse Electric Corp. for the Nebraska City station's turbine-generator.

A spokesman said the change was caused by an increase in the size of the turbine's oil coolers, which will make the equipment compatible with possible future cooling equipment.

OPPD Board Told Disaster Aid Approved

Omaha (AP) - The Omaha Public Power District board was told Thursday by General Manager Ralph Shaw that its application for federal disaster relief funds as a result of May 6 tornado had been approved.

He quoted Francis X. Tobin, regional director for the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration, as saying the total would be $860,422, and that half of the money was on its way to the

"Our application will now be reviewed and audited to determine exactly how much of our request will be granted," he said. "We will not know the total amount that we will receive for some time."

Board Adopts 'Tentative' Tax Increase

By United Press International The Lower Platte South Natural Resources District board of directors has adopted tentatively a property tax levy of 1 mill, an increase of two-tenths of 1 mill from last year, it was announced Thursday.

District officials said the levy was expected to raise $700.000, based on an assessed district valuation of $700 million for most of Lancaster and Cass Counties and portions of Seward, Butler, Saunders and Otoe Counties.

A public hearing will be held Aug. 11 in Lincoln on the proposed 1976 fiscal year budget of $1.4 million, $60,700 higher than a year ago.

Most of the budget's construction and land funding this year will be for the North Oak project in the Valparaiso-Brainard area, where two of the 12 flood storage structures are under construction, and two of four grade stabilization structures are completed.

The board said it expected to have three dams east of Brainard under construction this year at a cost of $175,000, totally paid by federal funds.

14 The Lincoln Star Friday, July 18, 1975 Coercion' Investigation Asked

By JON SWEET . Omaha (UPI) — The State Crime Commission was asked Thursday to investigate alleged activities by a commission member which involved reported "coercion and threats" against the 7th Step Foundation Inc of Omaha

The request for the investigation concerning Mike Jackson of Omaha was made by James Baird, a former 7th Step president and economic development coordinator

In a letter to Dee Lofgreen, the commission's corrections division chief in Lin-Coln. Baird alleged the activities by Jackson occurred last year when Democrat Jackson ran unsuccessfully for the Douglas County board. Baird further contended Jackson threatened to kill 7th Step's grant application unless Baird dropped his opposition to a proposed pilot parolee project n Omaha.

After obtaining a copy of Baird's letter, UPI contacted Jackson, who denied any wrongdoing.

Campaign Work

Late in April of 1974, Baird said he was contacted by Mike Farhart, a Jackson campaign worker, and requested by Farhart, now a Douglas County corrections fiscal analyst, to post yard signs and work at the polls on election day

Baird said he replied he would have to talk the matter over with Jackson first

Baird said Jackson "told me it sure could help him if we would post signs and work The polls for him. He then reminded me that it was he who got 7th Step its funding at the state level."

"The implication being that if I didn't accede to his demands he would also work the opposite end and we would not receive funding at the state level for our program. I agreed to his demands." Baurd said he enlisted three other 7th Step employes who helped during working hours on the campaign, adding, "they were not happy with the situation but in light of the funding threat they had no choice but to go along with the demand."

'Made No Demands'

Jackson said, however, "I made no demands on him (Baird) whatsoever."

"Jim Baird did pass out signs and worked the polls for me," Jackson said. "I took the pollworker material to 7th Step's office personally. I was called by Jim. I did not call him.'

Baird said he "objected to our having been forced to work for Mr. Jackson and indeed did not want him to be a county commissioner "

Those activities and others, Baird alleged, "involve coercion and threats by Mr Jackson made to me directly, and direct threats to the continued funding of the 7th Step Foundation project.

"My main concern at the start," Baird said, "was that this proposed project would be a duplication of services already offered primarily by the 7th Step Project, and to a lesser degree, to the project working out of the public defenders office."

Last Aug. 15, Baird said, he was "summoned" by Jackson to a meeting at the office of Dale Moeykens, manpower program

"I was told in no uncertain terms I had hetter drop my opposition to the project,' Baird said. "Mr. Jackson made me a promise - if I didn't drop opposition, I for sure wouldn't receive favorable consideration for the 7th Step grant application."

Jackson said he did arrange the meeting between Baird and Moeykens but "for the purpose of getting them together on this grant."

"There was $200,000 to $300,000 involved," Jackson said, "and I thought we should look at as many sources of funding as possible. The grant never did come through."

Jackson said he has, in the past, supported 7th Step's grant applications before the crime commission, "and so far, I haven't come up with anything against the program to warrant voting against it."

Jackson said, however, there was some evidence of "mismanagement of funds" within 7th Step, and contended Baird's letter may have been a "cheap shot to get away from the issue."

From last year's election to the present, Baird said, "the threat of no funding has hung over this (7th Step) project." "We have been constantly harassed by public officials," Baird said. "It is now evident to me that not making a formal protest would only obstruct justice. My appeasement and silence did not help me or this program.

Revisions May Be Forthcoming In State Employment Systems

By BOB GUENTHER

Star Staff Writer The proposed merger of the state personnel system and merit system, which in recent years has moved at the pace of molasses in January, is building momentum.

State Personnel Director Roy Gardner said Thursday he has submitted revised rules for such a system to the U.S. Civil Service Commission.

Gardner reported Thursday that Jack Anderson, a representative of the commission, has indicated he will recommend federal agencies approve the rules for the combined system with minor changes.

To state employes, the merger of the two systems will ensure that employes receive the same pay for the same work.

More Efficiency Expected To taxpayers, the merger will mean a more efficient state government; Gardner said.

Presently, state employes paid by federal funds are part of the state merit system, as required by federal statutes. Roughly 2,-000 state employes, mainly in the Health, Labor, Welfare and Education departments, fall into this category.

Merit system employes are given a merit exam and chosen for their test scores.

Another 15,000 state employes are presently under the state personnel system, administered by Gardner, which screens prospective employes more informally. These employes are mainly in the agencies under the direct control of the governor.

system has fostered some inequities, though isolated and "very few," according to

Gardner. Same Work, Different Pay

For instance, a person may be classified as an administrative assistant in the merit system and perform essentially secretarial work. In the state system, another person may be classified as a secretary and be paid less than the merit system employe for the same work.

Gardner said the merger would assure everyone doing the same work is assigned to the same pay grade.

Should the merger go through, Gardner said a current employe whose classification has been dropped will not have his salary dropped accordingly.

"The salaries will not go up or down because of the merger," Gardner said. "It's not the employe's fault that they were classified that way.

"I would never want to see an employe hurt by a classification

Disparity Isolated He emphasized the situations in which such a disparity exists are isolated. Gardner said the adjustment in pay would not be felt until that person had left the state's employment and a new person hired.

The merger, he said, would remove the State Merit System as a separate state agency and place it under Gardner as a division of the State Personnel Department.

Dams Generate Record

Omaha (UPI) - The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said Thursday an all-time daily generation record of 51.2 million kilowatt hours of electricity was produced by the main stem Missouri River dams on Wednesday.

The corps said hot weather and record releases from nearly all the six main stem dams accounted for the generation record.

Releases from Gavins Point and Fort Randall Dams in South Dakota, the corps said, were being gradually increased and will reach 60,000 cubic feet per second by the middle of next week to begin evacuation of stored flood waters.

The corps said a record 71.9 million acre feet of water is currently stored in the main stem system, and about 12 million acre-feet of this total

Lincoln Real Estate Firm's Fraud Conviction Affirmed

By United Press International The Nebraska Supreme Court Thursday affirmed a Lancaster County District Court decision in which a Lincoln real estate firm was convicted of fraud in connection with a house sale.

Muriel Vogt sued Town & Country Realty, one of its brokers, Stanley Portsche, and Gerald F. Gulland and his wife Peggy A., to recover damages stemming from the 1971 transac-

In the sale arrangements, Portsche did not advise the seller that a party interested in her home was Gulland, a fellow officer and broker in Town & Country Realty. Gulland eventually bought the house for $13,-500, took possession on April 1, 1971, made extensive repairs and improvements, and sold it two vears later for $28,500. When the plaintiff investigated and found out what had happened, she sued, claiming fraud in the 1971 transaction and asking damages.

The trial court found Town & Country and Portsche breached their fiduciary duties, ordered them to refund the real estate commission of $810 and entered judgment against all the defendants for additional damages of

The plaintiff appealed and the defendants cross-appealed but the supreme court affirmed the trial court findings, modifying them only to include prejudgment interest of six per cent, retroactive to June 1, 1971, on the sums awarded in the case.

PSC Rate Increases Upheld By United Press International

The Nebraska Supreme Court ruled Thursday the Public Service Commission (PSC) acted within the scope of its authority last fall when it authorized railroads operating in the state to increase freight rates and charges.

The railroads had asked for a hearing to determine whether a general commodity rail increase authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) on interstate traffic should be made applicable to intrastate traffic.

After the PSC acted, NEBCO, Inc., formerly Abel Investment Co., Lincoln, doing business as Ready Mixed Concrete Co. of Omaha, requested a rehearing.

The court said on an appeal to the supreme court from a PSC order which is administrative or legislative in character, the only questions for determination are whether the commission acted within the limits of its authority and whether the order is reasonable

Lincoln Real Estate Firm's Fraud Conviction Affirmed

By United Press International The Nebraska Supreme Court Thursday affirmed a Lancaster County District Court decision in which a Lincoln real estate firm was convicted of fraud in connection with a house sale. Muriel Vogt sued Town & Country Realty, one of its brokers, Stanley Portsche, and Gerald F. Gulland and his wife Peggy A., to recover damages stemming from the 1971 transac-

In the sale arrangements, Portsche did not advise the seller that a party interested in her home was Gulland, a fellow officer and broker in Town & Country Realty. Gulland eventually bought the house for $13,-500, took possession on April 1, 1971, made extensive repairs and improvements, and sold it two years later for $28,500.

When the plaintiff investigated and found out what had happened, she sued, claiming fraud in the 1971 transaction and asking damages.

The trial court found Town & Country and Portsche breached their fiduciary duties, ordered them to refund the real estate commission of $810 and entered judgment against all the defendants for additional damages of $2,500.

The plaintiff appealed and the defendants cross-appealed but the supreme court affirmed the trial court findings, modifying them only to include prejudgment interest of six per cent, retroactive to June 1, 1971, on the sums awarded in the case.

The railroads had asked for a hearing to determine whether a general commodity rail increase authorized by the Interstate interstate traffic should be made applicable to intrastate traffic.

After the PSC acted, NEBCO, Inc., formerly Abel Investment Co., Lincoln, doing business as Omaha, requested a rehearing.

Omaha - Theresa Wanek was born on July 11, 1958, one year after Mrs. Dorothy Schwartzkopf played in her first Nebraska

Women's State Golf tournament. At 9 a.m. Friday, the two will be opponents for the championship over the 5,417 yard, par 67 Omaha Field Club Course. The match is scheduled for 18 row for Schwartzkopf against a youngster in a year in which youth has dominated play.

Schwartzkopf's latest conquest came Thursday in the semi-final when she defeated 18-year-old Anne Mariucci of Omaha, two up. Her quarterfinal victory came over 19-year-old Laurie Glass of Beatrice.

"I feel real good to be in the final," Schwartzkopf said. "It's getting tougher every year because of the young kids, but that's great."

It is her ninth trip to the finals and the wife of former Lincoln mayor, Sam Schwartzkopf, couldn't be happier with her performance. She has won four

"A lot of golfers can get loose, It will be the third match in a but getting there (to the finals) is another step," she explained, obviously referring to the lack of experience of the young girls in this meet. "That's extra special, I guess."

Schwartzkopf was happy with her semifinal performance "except for three 3-putt greens." She shot a 41-35-76 and never trailed Mariucci.

come until the final hole when Mariucci drove into the rough and then caught a tall maple tree on her second shot.

Schwartzkopf, meanwhile, drove down the middle of the fairway of the par four finishing hole, approached just short of the green, chipped to within 14 inches of the cup, and sank if for

She made the turn two-up, and assumed a three hole lead by winning number 10 with a par. She lapsed briefly losing the 12th when she three-putted and dropping number 13 when she chipped short of the green.

After halving 14, she sank a 20foot breaking putt over a hump to win 15, but then lost 16. Both had pars on 17.

Wanek earned her first finals

The victory, however, didn't trip by defeating fellow Omahan. 20-year-old Lynne Merwald, 3 and 1.

"I was only down once early in the match," the pig-tailed Marian High School senior-to-be said. "So the pressure was really on Lynne.

The difference in the match was Wanek's putting. She ran in 30-footers on the fifth and seventh greens to take a 3-up lead and sank a 15-footer on number 13 to maintain that margin.

"It's the best I've played all week," Wanek said, "adding she's looking forward to meeting Schwartzkopf, "She beat me by two strokes in the medal play tournament at Grand Island and this is a chance to get even," she

Schwartzkopf, too, is anxious for the match. "I'm playing better this summer," she said. "You know we've had a leasurily last two months (since Sam lost his reelection bid). It has helped my golf."

As for playing another "whiz kid," she said "I know their going to outhit me off the tee, so I just don't let it bother me."

to bad-mouth whoever and whatever they despised. In each case they were disappointed - this column is not going to be used as a soapbox for every dissatisfied patron, horseman, jockey or "concerned citizen."

Nor is it going to be used by letter writers who don't have the convictions to sign their names to letters critical of the State Fairgrounds' operation.

However, today's discussion concerns Lincoln racing and the opinions (unlike the unsigned letters) are MINE:

NEW RACING SURFACE - From a strictly layman's point of view and from jockeys and horsemen we have talked with, it appears as if the new racing surface is the best ever in Lincoln. Obviously, it needs some work. When you buy a pair of new shoes, they aren't perfect either, are they?

Other Matters

STATE FAIRGROUNDS MANAGEMENT - There are no more enthusiastic boosters of Lincoln racing than Henry Brandt, general manager and State Fair Board president Don Clement. It is inconceivable how those two gentleman are worthy of all the bad comments and innuendoes they have received. Certainly the new track isn't perfect, but both Brandt and Clement have done all possible to provide the best course for his city. They are to be commended.

QUALITY OF HORSES — through the first week, the State Fairgrounds has had the best racing ever. I realize its a cliche and it's used every year. But racing secretary Bob Pollock and his assistant Richard Crockett have provided Lincoln fans with the finest racing ever. And the next four weeks should prove

CONDITION OF THE GRANDSTAND — certainly its deplorable. Why harp on the obvious? This is the last year for the hot structure which represents all that is bad with Lincoln horse racing. It won't be here in two years. Just bear with it for the final four weeks.

LINCOLN HORSE RACE FANS — are the finest in this state. They have suffered with the heat, humidity and poor conditions of the grandstand for all these years. Lincoln is NOT repeat NOT — a bad horseracing town. Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Dick Becker pointed out that within five years, Lincoln will average nearly $750,000 daily in mutuel handle. That's a fantastic average for a city with a small population base. This town does not deserve all the nasty comments it has received.

LINCOLN JOCKEYS — It appears as if the riders are the best ever here and that indicates a close chase for top honors. "Newcomers" such as Tom Greer, Bill Stallings and Terry Barnes, who is off to a fine start, have given an upgraded look to

Star Sports Writer Omaha — Theresa Wanek was born on July 11, 1958, one year after Mrs. Dorothy Schwartzkopf played in her first Nebraska

Women's State Golf tournament. At 9 a.m. Friday, the two will be opponents for the championship over the 5,417 yard, par 67 Omaha Field Club Course. The match is scheduled for 18 holes.

It will be the third match in a row for Schwartzkopf against a youngster in a year in which youth has dominated play.

Schwartzkopf's latest conquest came Thursday in the semi-final when she defeated 18-year-old Anne Mariucci of Omaha, two up. Her quarterfinal victory came over 19-year-old Laurie Glass of Beatrice.

"I feel real good to be in the final," Schwartzkopf said. "It's getting tougher every year because of the young kids, but that's great."

It is her ninth trip to the finals and the wife of former Lincoln mayor, Sam Schwartzkopf, couldn't be happier with her performance. She has won four

"A lot of golfers can get loose, but getting there (to the finals) is another step," she explained, obviously referring to the lack of experience of the young girls in this meet. "That's extra special, I guess."

Schwartzkopf was happy with her semifinal performance "except for three 3-putt greens." She shot a 41-35-76 and never come until the final hole when Mariucci drove into the rough and then caught a tall maple tree on her second shot.

Schwartzkopf, meanwhile, drove down the middle of the fairway of the par four finishing hole, approached just short of the green, chipped to within 14 inches of the cup, and sank if for

She made the turn two-up, and assumed a three hole lead by winning number 10 with a par. She lapsed briefly losing the 12th when she three-putted and dropping number 13 when she chipped short of the green.

After halving 14, she sank a 20foot breaking putt over a hump to win 15, but then lost 16. Both had pars on 17.

Wanek earned her first finals

The victory, however, didn't trip by defeating fellow Omahan, 20-year-old Lynne Merwald, 3

> "I was only down once early in the match," the pig-tailed Marian High School senior-to-be said. "So the pressure was really on Lynne."

The difference in the match was Wanek's putting. She ran in 30-footers on the fifth and seventh greens to take a 3-up lead and sank a 15-footer on number 13 to maintain that margin.

"It's the best I've played all week," Wanek said, "adding she's looking forward to meeting Schwartzkopf. "She beat me by two strokes in the medal play tournament at Grand Island and this is a chance to get even," she Schwartzkopf, too, is anxious for the match. "I'm playing better this summer," she said. "You know we've had a leasurily last two months (since Sam lost his reelection bid). It has helped my golf." As for playing another "whiz kid," she said "I know their going to outhit me off the tee, so

Flying Shoulda Seeking Win

By MARK GORDON Star Sports Writer

It's been a long time since Flying Shoulda had her picture taken in the winner's circle.

But early Friday night, the pride of James F. Lynch could be a winner for the second time in her life as she tops a sevenfilly field for Friday's fourth running of the Tassel Stakes at the State Fairgrounds.

A Question of Philosophy

Throughout this horse racing season, I have been approached by at least 10 persons complaining about persons or establishments.

They apparently thought this column was the easiest place to bad-mouth whoever and whatever they despised. In each case they were disappointed - this column is not going to be used as a soapbox for every dissatisfied patron, horseman, jockey or "concerned citizen."

Nor is it going to be used by letter writers who don't have the convictions to sign their names to letters critical of the State Fairgrounds' operation.

However, today's discussion concerns Lincoln racing and the opinions (unlike the unsigned letters) are MINE:

NEW RACING SURFACE - From a strictly layman's point of view and from jockeys and horsemen we have talked with, it appears as if the new racing surface is the best ever in Lincoln. Obviously, it needs some work. When you buy a pair of new shoes, they aren't perfect either, are they?

Other Matters

STATE FAIRGROUNDS MANAGEMENT — There are no more enthusiastic boosters of Lincoln racing than Henry Brandt, general manager and State Fair Board president Don Clement. It is inconceivable how those two gentleman are worthy of all the bad comments and innuendoes they have received. Certainly the new track isn't perfect, but both Brandt and Clement have done all possible to provide the best course for his city. They are to be commended.

QUALITY OF HORSES — through the first week, the State Fairgrounds has had the best racing ever. I realize its a cliche and it's used every year. But racing secretary Bob Pollock and the finest racing ever. And the next four weeks should prove

CONDITION OF THE GRANDSTAND - certainly its deplorable. Why harp on the obvious? This is the last year for the hot structure which represents all that is bad with Lincoln horse racing. It won't be here in two years. Just bear with it for the final four weeks.

LINCOLN HORSE RACE FANS - are the finest in this state. They have suffered with the heat, humidity and poor conditions of the grandstand for all these years. Lincoln is NOT repeat NOT - a bad horseracing town. Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Dick Becker pointed out that within five years, Lincoln will average nearly $750,000 daily in mutuel handle. That's a fantastic average for a city with a small population base. This town does not deserve all the nasty comments it has received. LINCOLN JOCKEYS — It appears as if the riders are the best ever here and that indicates a close chase for top honors. 'Newcomers" such as Tom Greer, Bill Stallings and Terry Barnes, who is off to a fine start, have given an upgraded look to the riders' colony.

A Sports Roundup

Quarterback Daryle Lamonica will undergo surgery for a bilateral hernia and will be out of action from six to eight weeks, the WFL Southern California Sun announced. Lamonica, the starting quarterback in both of the Sun's exhibition victories suffered the injury in the second quarter of the game against Memphis last Monday. Veteran offensive tackle Bill Sandeman of the Atlanta

Falcons announced that he was retiring. Five Philadelphia Eagles required hospital treatment for heat cramps as a result of the combined effects of two practice sessions and high temperatures. Running back Steve Davis met with the Pittsburgh Steelers for two hours and then decided to quit pro football.

The Detroit Lions completed the signing of their 1975 draft choices with the acquisition of Dennis Franklin, former all-American quarterback at Michigan. Mike Flater the leading scorer for the Denver Dynamos of the North American Soccer League, is expected to join the Lions later this week.

Wide receiver Dave Smith was waived by the San Diego Jury selection began in federal court in the $3,000 bank embezzlement and larceny trial of Oakland Raiders defensive halfback George Atkins. Veteran defensive tackle Pete Duranko signed with the Denver Broncos. Guard Mike Schnitker formerly of Colorado, underwent surgery on his left knee the club announced. Rommie Loudd, managing general partner of the old Florida Blazers of the WFL was released on bail and a hearing was set on a motion to stay judgment of a decision that he would be subject to extradition to Florida where he faces drug charges. BASEBALL The Texas Rangers called up outfielders Tom Robson and

The California Angels made a pitching swap with the Los Angeles Dodgers in a waiver deal that brought veteran reliever Jim Brewer to the AL club and sent Dave Sells to the Dodgers. The National League rejected proposals for designated hitter and designated runner rules.

Dave Moates from their Spokane farm club.

The St. Louis Cardinals called up righthander Harry Rassmussen from the Tulsa Oilers. Phil Hersh of the Baltimore Evening Sun said he will drop assault charges against Detroit manager Ralph Houk, who forcibly ejected the sports writer from the Tigers' locker room. The Montreal Expos have reacquired the contract of outfielder Jim Lyttle of the Denver Bears.

HORSE RACING America's fast-pace style of racing has created a monster according to Dr. Alex Harthill, one of the veterinarians that battled unsuccessfully to save the life of filly Ruffian. "The early burst of speed can hurt a horse," he said, commenting on the aspect of match races. New Jersey State Police and the state racing commission are investigating possible tampering in Monday's ninth race at Atlantic City race course, a trifecta that was won by three longshots and paid $667.40, with 9-5 favorite Lancers Rubyait finishing last. Monmouth Park announced the invitation of 15-3-year-olds to the Aug. 2 $100,000 Monmouth Handicap, including Kentucky Derby winner Foolish Pleasure, Master Derby, Avatar, Bold Trap, Prince Thou Art, Forceten, Singh, Promised City, and Diabolo among others.

OTHER SPORTS

Leading money winner Earl Anthony upped his pro bowling earnings to $73,215 by taking third place in the Tucson Open. The assault trial of Dave Forbes went to the jury Thursday in a case marking the first time a professional athlete has been taken to criminal court in the United States for an incident that occurred during a sports contest.

A guilty verdict could have major significance if civil authorities choose to intercede as a result of future violence in

Conner after the Virginia Squires traded negotiation rights to the University of Kentucky standout.

Kuhn Term Extended

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Bowie Kuhn's survival as commissioner of baseball was orchestrated in a two-day struggle of the game's most powerful men in what had to be an emotional seesaw for the stately former Wall Street lawyer.

Kuhn called the politicking and armtwisting "obscene, but when the smoke had cleared he had another sevenyear term as the game's commissioner. He can thank Walter O'Malley for that.

It was O'Malley, owner of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who marshalled support for Kuhn after four American League clubs, the Oakland A's, Baltimore Orioles, New York Yankees and Texas Rangers, had voted against Kuhn. The showdown began at noon Wednesday, when the two leagues went into separate meetings. On their agenda were reports from the franchise and player relations commiteees and consideration of a new term of office for Kuhn. The committee reports received scant attention despite their importance.

Opposition to Kuhn was led by Oakland's Charles O. Finley and Baltimore's Jerold Hoffberger. Both have had scrapes with the commissioner and were determined to bring him down. But they needed two other American League votes to succeed. The surprise was that they got them, for a while, from the Yankees and Rangers.

"That was the shocker," said one member of baseball's inner circle. "They never expected Texas to vote against the com-

The night before, Finley had said he thought the issue would be tabled and that the NL would oppose an immediate vote "because they think the climate isn't right for it."

In the National League, Kuhn's support was solid, with a 12-0 vote to re-elect. Then the NL owners got word of the AL position and requested an informal joint meeting of the two leagues.

But the weather had changed overnight, and a formal vote was taken. O'Malley had won his showdown, 22-2.

Morning Briefing

Quarterback Daryle Lamonica will undergo surgery for a bilateral hernia and will be out of action from six to eight weeks, the WFL Southern California Sun announced. Lamonica, the starting quarterback in both of the Sun's exhibition victories suffered the injury in the second quarter of the game against Memphis last Monday.

Veteran offensive tackle Bill Sandeman of the Atlanta Falcons announced that he was retiring.

Five Philadelphia Eagles required hospital treatment for heat cramps as a result of the combined effects of two practice sessions and high temperatures. Running back Steve Davis met with the Pittsburgh Steelers for two hours and then decided to quit pro football. The Detroit Lions completed the signing of their 1975 draft choices with the acquisition of Dennis Franklin, former all-American quarterback at Michigan. Mike Flater the leading scorer for the Denver Dynamos of the North American Soccer League, is expected to join the Lions later this week.

Wide receiver Dave Smith was waived by the San Diego Chargers.

Jury selection began in federal court in the $3,000 bank embezzlement and larceny trial of Oakland Raiders defensive halfback George Atkins.

Veteran defensive tackle Pete Duranko signed with the Denver Broncos. Guard Mike Schnitker formerly of Colorado, underwent surgery on his left knee the club announced.

Rommie Loudd, managing general partner of the old Florida Blazers of the WFL was released on bail and a hearing was set on a motion to stay judgment of a decision that he would be subject to extradition to Florida where he faces drug charges.

BASEBALL

The Texas Rangers called up outfielders Tom Robson and Dave Moates from their Spokane farm club.

The California Angels made a pitching swap with the Los Angeles Dodgers in a waiver deal that brought veteran reliever Jim Brewer to the AL club and sent Dave Sells to the Dodgers. The National League rejected proposals for designated hitter and designated runner rules. The St. Louis Cardinals called up righthander Harry Rassmussen from the Tulsa Oilers. Phil Hersh of the Baltimore Evening Sun said he will drop assault charges against Detroit manager Ralph Houk, who forcibly ejected the sports writer from the Tigers' locker room.

The Montreal Expos have reacquired the contract of outfielder Jim Lyttle of the Denver Bears.

HORSE RACING

America's fast-pace style of racing has created a monster according to Dr. Alex Harthill, one of the veterinarians that battled unsuccessfully to save the life of filly Ruffian. "The early burst of speed can hurt a horse," he said, commenting on the aspect of match races.

New Jersey State Police and the state racing commission are investigating possible tampering in Monday's ninth race at Atlantic City race course, a trifecta that was won by three longshots and paid $667.40, with 9-5 favorite Lancers Rubyait finishing last.

Monmouth Park announced the invitation of 15- 3-year-olds to the Aug. 2 $100,000 Monmouth Handicap, including Kentucky Derby winner Foolish Pleasure, Master Derby, Avatar, Bold Trap, Prince Thou Art, Forceten, Singh, Promised City, and Diabolo among others.

OTHER SPORTS

Leading money winner Earl Anthony upped his pro bowling earnings to $73,215 by taking third place in the Tucson Open. . The assault trial of Dave Forbes went to the jury Thursday

in a case marking the first time a professional athlete has been taken to criminal court in the United States for an incident that occurred during a sports contest. A guilty verdict could have major significance if civil authorities choose to intercede as a result of future violence in The Kentucky Colonels of the ABA signed Jimmy Dan

Conner after the Virginia Squires traded negotiation rights to the University of Kentucky standout.

NU Names Woman Aide

June (Jay) B. Davis has been appointed assistant Sports Information Director at Nebraska and will work with the women's athletic program, athletic director Bob Devaney announced Thursday.

Davis, 28, will work closely with Aleen Swofford, newlyappointed assistant athletic director for women's athletics, in the areas of promotion, public relations, publicity, as well as with the scholarship program, Devaney said.

A native of Winnipeg, Canada, Davis received her Bachelor's Degree in physical education from the University of Manitoba in 1969 and her Master's Degree from Washington State in 1971. She received her PhD from Texas Woman's University in June.

"Davis has a fine background of playing, teaching and coaching to contribute a great deal to the growing Nebraska women's program," Swofford

Curl Leads

SUTTON, Mass, (AP) - Rod Curl, a little Wintu warrior on the comeback trail, romped in with a five-under-par 66 and the first-round lead Thursday in the $200,000 Pleasant Valley Golf

"I'd been crippled up with tendinitis in my left wrist from last August until January," said Curl, 5-foot-5 and threequarter Wintu Indian.

"It takes a long time to come back. I just got my game back in Milwaukee (two weeks ago). But it really felt good today. I could see, in my mind, every shot I had to make. That makes it feel like an easy game. That's fun. But when you've got a bad wrist all you can see is 74s and that's no

Curl, who scored his lone tour triumph in the Colonial National in Fort Worth, Tex. last year, didn't make a bogey in his effort over the hilly, 7,119yard Pleasant Valley Country Club course.

Curl played in the morning half of the field, finished before the greens became spiked up and crusty and before the muggy heat reached its height.

He held a one-stroke lead over veteran Miller Barber, who climbed out of a hospital bed to shoot a 67 with a birdie on the final hole.

"I played with a doctor in the pro-am yesterday and he said I looked a little peaked and should get a chec-up," Barber said.

Peru Coach Quits Post

College officials are looking for a new basketball coach.

Roger Schnaser, head basketball coach for the past 11/2 years, announced his resignation, saying he would join an insurance firm in St. Paul, Minn.

Schnaser, a native of Appleton, Minn., took over the basketball duties here in the middle of the 1974 season.

Inheriting a sagging program, his teams compiled an overall

Peru (AP) - Peru State record of only five wins and 35

In addition to his coaching duties, Schnaser also directed the school's intramurals program and the collegecommunity recreation program.

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) - Rod Curl, a little Wintu warrior on the comeback trail, romped in with a five-under-par 66 and the first-round lead Thursday in the $200,000 Pleasant Valley Golf Classic.

"I'd been crippled up with tendinitis in my left wrist from last August until January," said Curl, 5-foot-5 and threequarter Wintu Indian.

"It takes a long time to come back. I just got my game back in Milwaukee (two weeks ago). But it really felt good today. I could see, in my mind, every shot I had to make. That makes it feel like an easy game. That's fun. But when you've got a bad wrist all you can see is 74s and that's no fun at all.'

Curl, who scored his lone tour triumph in the Colonial National in Fort Worth, Tex. last year, didn't make a bogey in his effort over the hilly, 7,119yard Pleasant Valley Country Club course. Curl played in the morning half of the field, finished before the greens became spiked up and crusty and before the muggy heat reached its height. He held a one-stroke lead over veteran Miller Barber, who climbed out of a hospital bed to shoot a 67 with a birdie on the final hole.

"I played with a doctor in the pro-am yesterday and he said I looked a little peaked and should get a chec-up," Barber said.

"I checked in the hospital and they found some allergies and a sinus infection. I came out this morning not at all sure I was gonna play. Just wanted to see if I was strong enough to make it."

Heading the group at 68, just two shots back, was Lee Elder, who has a history of playing this tournament very, very well. Elder hasn't won here but finished second two years in a row and ranks as this event's alltime leading money-winner.

Also at 68 were Chuck Court-

nev and Eddie Pearce. Miller Barber Lee Elder Chuck Courtney Eddie Pearce George Johnson Mike Hill Leonard Thompson Brian Allin Dave Eichelberger Larry Nelson Bob Phillips ve Stockton Ziohra

College officials are looking for a new basketball coach.

Roger Schnaser, head basketball coach for the past 11/2 years, announced his resignation, saying he would join an insurance firm in St. Paul, Minn.

Schnaser, a native of Appleton, Minn., took over the basketball duties here in the middle of the 1974 season.

Inheriting a sagging program, his teams compiled an overall

Peru Coach Quits Post

record of only five wins and 35

In addition to his coaching duties, Schnaser also directed the school's intramurals program and the collegecommunity recreation program.

Net Earnings Increase Told By Valmont

Valley (AP) - Valmont Industries, Inc., of Valley reported a 22% increase in net earnings during the second quarter of the year, compared with 11% in a comparable period a year ago

Paul Lienemann, senior vice president, said Valmont's net earnings of $1.60 per share for the first six months represented: a 79% increase over 1974 and sales of nearly $41 million for that period were 30% higher than for a comparable period a vear ago

Net earnings and sales levels for the second quarter and on a year to-year basis represent record levels, he said.

Valmont is the largest manufacturer of center pivot irrigation equipment.

Worries Send Stocks Lower

NEW YORK (AP) - Renewed uneasiness over interest rate prospects drove the stock market into retreat for the second session in a row Thursday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down 9,70 points on Wednesday, lost another 7.83 to Declines outpaced advances

921 to 501 among the 1,823 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Big Board volume eased off to 21.42 million shares, compared with 25.25 million on Wednesday. The NYSE's composite index dropped .48 to 50.24, and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was off .98 at 93.63

Analysts were speculating that the Federal Reserve's recent moves in the money markets might mean that the central bank had decided to aim for a slight further increase in short term interest rates. Chase Manhattan of New York, the nation's third largest bank, meanwhile joined in a quarter-point increase in the prime lending rate, to 74 per cent, begun a week ago by First National City of New York. And there was talk of a possible further increase in the basic rate on big business loans to 71/2 per cent Friday morning The government meanwhile reported that housing starts,

May, turned downward again in A more positive development was word that the nation's Gross National Product, after separating out the effects of inflation, virtually leveled off in the second quarter following a sharp drop in the first three which had posted a sharp gain in months. In an apparent reaction to that news, the market staged a brief rally attempt late in the morning, with the Dow moving from a minus-3 reading to plus1 briefly But the buying died out and by early afternoon the market was headed lower again.

Two substantial contributors to the Dow's decline were Alcoa, off 11/8 at 461/8, and Union Carbide, down 1% at 60%. Both companies reported declines in second quarter earnings.

Boise Cascade, which also came in with lower operating profits for the past quarter, lost 1 to 25% in active trading Bausch & Lomb, on the other hand, gained 1% to 38% after posting a sharp gain in quarterly

Commodities Sharply Lower

Chicago (AP) — Widespread profit taking produced sharply lower prices for farm commodity futures on the Chicago Board

Some of the selling, however, was said to have followed what the trade believed was a disappointing set of figures of grain purchased by Russia from the United States. Agriculture Secretary Butz had said Russia might require 10 million tons of grain, but the first announcement of a confirmed purchase involved only 3.5 million tons.

Iced broilers closed on a steady to about one third cent lower. Gold futures were down about 50 cents an ounce after a very lightly traded session.

February to 393,000 in March. Sales and sharp decline in housing completions have helped unsold inventory, the magazine said. Between December and March, rates of completions dropped 23%, falling from 1.6 to 1.2 million units. This is below the rate of 1.8 million units for the same period a year ago. As a result of the 5% or maximum $2,000 tax credit, new unsold inventory is beginning to become manageable, according to housing spokesmen. The rental vacancy rate for all housing units increased while the home owner vacancy rate declined.

Worries Send Stocks Lower

NEW YORK (AP) - Renewed uneasiness over interest rate prospects drove the stock market into retreat for the second session in a row Thursday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down 9,70 points on Wednesday, lost another 7.83 to Declines outpaced advances 921 to 501 among the 1,823 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume eased off to 21.42 million shares, compared with 25.25 million on Wednesday.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .48 to 50.24, and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was off .98 at 93.63.

Analysts were speculating that the Federal Reserve's recent moves in the money markets might mean that the central bank had decided to aim for a slight further increase in short term interest rates.

Chase Manhattan of New York, the nation's third largest bank, meanwhile joined in a quarter-point increase in the prime lending rate, to 71/4 per cent, begun a week ago by First National City of New York.

And there was talk of a possible further increase in the basic rate on big business loans to 71/2 per cent Friday morning by Citibank.

The government meanwhile reported that housing starts, which had posted a sharp gain in May, turned downward again in

A more positive development was word that the nation's Gross National Product, after separating out the effects of inflation, virtually leveled off in the second quarter following a sharp drop in the first three

In an apparent reaction to that news, the market staged a brief rally attempt late in the morning, with the Dow moving from region and 19 points in the a minus-3 reading to plus1 briefly. But the buying died out and by early afternoon the market was headed lower again.

> Two substantial contributors to the Dow's decline were Alcoa, off 11/8 at 461/8, and Union Carbide, down 1% at 60%. Both companies reported declines in second quarter earnings.

Boise Cascade, which also came in with lower operating profits for the past quarter, lost 1 to 25% in active trading.

Bausch & Lomb, on the other hand, gained 15% to 383% after posting a sharp gain in quarterly

Commodities Sharply Lower

Chicago (AP) - Widespread profit taking produced sharply lower prices for farm commodity futures on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday.

Some of the selling, however, was said to have followed what the trade believed was a disappointing set of figures of grain purchased by Russia from the United States. Agriculture Secretary Butz had said Russia might require 10 million tons of grain, but the first announcement of a confirmed purchase involved only 3.5 million tons.

Iced broilers closed on a steady to about one third cent lower. Gold futures were down about 50 cents an ounce after a very lightly traded session.

Airport Suggested Again Aș SeTech Campus Site

Board member Don Geis said Thursday he will continue to explore the possibility of using Lincoln Air Park West as a college campus.

The Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College (SeTEch) is currently looking for a campus site. Classes are now scattered over the city.

"I think it would make a good campus," Geis said. He pointed out that the area, the site of the abandoned Air Force Base, has

Trips To Bonn Start Rumors

Bonn (UP1) - French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing will arrive July 25, only a day before President Ford is expected to come to Bonn, giving rise to speculation of a meeting before the 34-nation European Security Conference in Helsinki.

A government spokesman said Giscard will consult with Chancellor Helmut Schmidt on July 25 and 26. No official confirmation was available of a possible meeting with Ford, but informed sources said the American President would probably arrive in Bonn July 26, before going on to Warsaw and the Helsinki summit.

Nebraska Elks Rated Highly At Convention

By United Press International Nebraska Elks lodges have scored well in competition for national honors during the organization's national convention in Dallas, Elks officials said Thursday.

The Lincoln lodge won first place in the nation for its youth activities program, the Ainsworth lodge finished first in its class in the same category, and the one at Falls City came in second for its youth week

Nebraska's state youth program, which involves all lodges, placed second and the Nebraska crippled children's display was awarded first place. Vince Collura of Lincoln was selected special deputy for the national grand lodge. W. K. Rynearson of Broken Bow was appointed to its youth activities program, and Lowell Lewis of Falls City was named grand in-

The board last year dismissed that alternative, deciding that "the buildings required so much maintenance, we'd be better off to stay in Lincoln (proper) and lease space from the public schools," he said. Board members had assumed that public transportation would be a problem, if the college's Lincoln campus were located on the city's western fringe. However, Eicher said a study showed few SeTech students commute to college centers by bus, opting instead for driving themselves.

Still, "It would take someone a considerable length of time to get from the east end of town" to drive to the Air Park for classes. Eicher said.

He also questioned whether SeTech could build on land controlled by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) noting he believes only leasing is per-

Nebraska Elks Rated Highly At Convention

By United Press International Nebraska Elks lodges have scored well in competition for national honors during the organization's national convention in Dallas, Elks officials said

The Lincoln lodge won first place in the nation for its youth activities program, the Ainsworth lodge finished first in its class in the same category, and the one at Falls City came in second for its youth week

Nebraska's state youth program, which involves all lodges, placed second and the Nebraska crippled children's display was awarded first place.

Vince Collura of Lincoln was selected special deputy for the national grand lodge. W. K. Rynearson of Broken Bow was appointed to its youth activities program, and Lowell Lewis of Falls City was named grand inner guard.

fires that destroyed a trailer house and did considerable damage to two garages.

Robert Lang, of 2625 N. 9th, Lot 8, got a rude welcome to Lincoln when fire destroyed the trailer house he had moved into on Tuesday, fire officials said.

The fire apparently started when propane gas leaked into the trailer and exploded, firemen said. They said the trailer, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wollen of 2625 N. 9th, was completely engulfed in flames when they arrived.

Neighbors told firemen Lang

Firemen had a busy day left the trailer about 10:30 a.m., Thursday fighting three separate nine minutes before the explosion. The rest of Lang's family has not arrived in Lincoln, firemen said.

A fire, apparently started by teenagers smoking near an old sofa in a garage, did considerable damage to the garage and breezeway of the Mrs. Susan Terhune home, 7220 Eastborough Lane, fire officials said.

Firemen said the fire started in the garage and spread to the breezeway before being extinguished. The teenagers have not been identified, they

A fire also did considreable damage to the garage of the Charles Smith home, 1649 S. 16th, fire officials said. The cause of the fire is still being investigated.

Firemen Kept On Toes Fighting Blazes At 3 Lincoln Locations

Firemen had a busy day left the trailer about 10:30 a.m., Thursday fighting three separate nine minutes before the explofires that destroyed a trailer sion. The rest of Lang's family house and did considerable has not arrived in Lincoln, damage to two garages.

Robert Lang, of 2625 N. 9th, Lot 8, got a rude welcome to Lincoln when fire destroyed the trailer house he had moved into on Tuesday, fire officials said.

The fire apparently started when propane gas leaked into the trailer and exploded, firemen said. They said the trailer, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wollen of 2625 N. 9th, was completely engulfed in flames when they arrived. Neighbors told firemen Lang

Grain Train Leaves Tracks

Beaver City (AP) - Six cars of an 83-car Burlington Northern freight train left the tracks one mile west of here Thursday afternoon.

The six cars were all hopper units loaded with grain.

Crews were working to clear the tracks and Burlington Northern officials said the tracks will probably be open by Friday afternoon.

with "Tom Wolfe & The Painted Word"

There's a new day and time, but controversy is still a key word when William F. Buckley, Jr. and journalist Tom Wolfe get together. Wolfe's latest book, The Painted Word, is a scathing opinion of the American modern-art movement. He's caused rumbles to emanate from critics and artists alike.

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast for Friday

Statement from a lovely Taurus woman. I don't know why astrologers don't give us more credit for being in terested in astrology. We are you know in your column for example you never tell of Taurus and their fascination for the subject. I am knowledgeable about astrology and so are many Taureans that talk to me. Please make it clear that Taurus is not only sensual but also has an insatiable curiosity, especially where astrology is concerned. For me. a man who can talk about the planets zodiacal signs and horoscopes rates high in in telligence maturity and charm.
